

Library awareness Programme
HNPM Library
Progati College, Agomani

Established in 1991, HNPM Library of Progati College, Agomani is a Central Library taking active part, role and responsibility in bringing together the students willing to learn, and in learning and expanding knowledge. The library is a store house of text books, journals, magazines, newspapers, books on general knowledge, competition success etc.

HNPM Library organizes library awareness programmes every year to make us feel its strength in spreading knowledge, and to share necessary information, current as well as general knowledge, new inventions etc. The library makes us very much aware of what is happening locally and internationally. Students are often isolated from one another, and the library provides a place to exchange ideas of all sorts, and it is the role, responsibility and strength of the library to make the students and teachers aware regarding the necessity and benefit of visiting library.

Keeping the afore-cited facts in view, HNPM Library organizes awareness programmes every year with full, active and spontaneous participation of the students and teachers, and to sensitize them towards healthy reading habit which is a gate-way to knowledge. The HNPM library awareness programme encourages the thinking process, creativity, inquisitiveness of the students and makes the learning process more fruitful.
